The signs of the times, politically, are encouraging. There is a substantial disposition to grapple with public abuses and to hold them up to the light of day; and as they who practice them are handed over to the civil courts for punishment, the injunction is repeated in tones of grim thunder,—"Let no guilty man escape." It finds an answering echo in the hearts of the sturdy American, wherever he may be. The difference in periods is this: It has been so, that the commission of public fraud was hardly considered a crime, if it was adroitly done. When Gen. Rawlins was the Secretary of War he sold no post sutler ships; but, at that very time, Tweed and his followers flourished in the city of New York, and were the most popular men there, though they stole by the million. The contrast between an honest man and a dishonest one can be looked on as a type of those times. Poor Rawlins coughed himself to death with disease, working the extent of his strength, making every blow tell of an honest and patriotic deed, struggling as a man to help and to heal the country just emerging from the war, acquiring his living honestly and living within his private means because it was brave and just to do so, and because the example to others would be a good one—while Tweed, in the city of New York, was acting the big thief, receiving public offices and honors because he could purchase them with stolen money, and defying either arrest or punishment. The flashy diamond on his breast had more worshippers than the flash of Rawlins' eye in anger at the very thought of a dishonest act. Tweed was the hard representative of the then present and the five or ten years then past. Rawlins was the representative of the future and now. Lincoln, Washburne, Grant, and Rawlins, in this regard, were all of that type of men. Their unyielding integrity has had a value to the country that can not be told. They passed through the fire, but it had no power to harm them. They stand today as great representatives of the spirit that saved the nation. As honest as either of them is a proverb. The public mind this moment reflects the noble intentions and sympathies of those men, and voice to the transgressor who defies the avalanche. Contrast, in pain as we must, Rawlins and his successor, who followed Tweed, and is condemned with a universal voice. His downfall dates from the instant of his discovery of his crimes. He followed Tweed in his wrong doing—he follows him in his infamy. He will be punished to the extent of the law, terrible as the penalty may be, for the public sentiment will now warrant the punishment of public crimes. Herein is the encouraging aspect, for it has not always been so. Stealing must be stopped. "Let no guilty man escape," is the sign of the times. The party that practically enforces the injunction is the party of Progress, and in confidence in truth and justice it may trust to conquer.

The Democratic State Central Committee met in Virginia City last Saturday for the purpose of calling a State Convention to nominate delegates to the National Convention, to be held at St. Louis next June. The Convention will be held at Carson on May 15th. It was also decided to hold a Convention at Virginia City, August 28th, for the purpose of nominating Presidential Electors, members of Congress and a Supreme Judge.

The price of admission to the Exhibition in Philadelphia will be fifty cents, payable in one note. The receivers at the recording turnstiles will have nothing to do with the notes except to decide whether they are good or bad, and to drop them in a box.

THE BURLINGAME TREATY.

The most important features of the Treaty of November, 1868, commonly known as the Burlingame Treaty, are embodied in Articles 5 and 6, which read as follows:

Article V.—The United States of America and the Emperor of China cordially recognize the inherent and inalienable right of man to change his home and allegiance, and also the mutual advantage of free migration and emigration of their citizens and subjects respectively from the one country to the other for purposes of curiosity, of trade, or as permanent residents. The high contracting parties therefore join in reprobating any other than an entirely voluntary emigration for these purposes. They consequently agree to pass laws making it a penal offense for a citizen of the United States or Chinese subjects to take Chinese subjects either to the United States or to any foreign country, or for a Chinese subject or citizens of the United States to take citizens of the United States to China or to any other foreign country without their free and voluntary consent, respectively.

Article VI.—Citizens of the United States visiting or residing in China shall enjoy the same privileges, immunities or exemptions in respect to travel or residence as may there be enjoyed by the citizens or subjects of the most favored nation; and, reciprocally, Chinese subjects visiting or residing in the United States shall enjoy the same privileges, immunities and exemptions in respect to travel or residence as may there be enjoyed by the citizens or subjects of the most favored nation. But nothing herein contained shall be held to confer naturalization upon citizens of the United States in China, nor upon the subjects of China in the United States.

While the treaty remains in force we can do nothing with the Chinese. What is demanded is the repeal of this Burlingame treaty. Then we can soon put a stop to the undesirable influx of such beasts and frauds.

A FEW WORDS TO COUNTY ASSESSORS.

The County Assessors of the State will soon commence their labors for the year. We desire to call the attention of the Assessors of those counties through which runs the Central Pacific Railroad. In all of these counties, except Washoe, when the sworn statement of the Company was demanded, it will be rendered for the present as it has been for the past. The "old iron" theory, the inevitable "six thousand" per mile will be retained for the main track. In Washoe county the principle has been established that the Central Pacific Railroad Company is not the Law, and that when they assert they will only pay taxes at the rate of $6,000 per mile they lie. In Washoe county, last year, we equalized them at $3,000 per mile, and they paid on that amount. They will pay at that rate this year. It is little enough. And we hope that the Assessors, for whose benefit this article is written, will assess the Company at $9,000 per mile, it being only in proportion to what the poor man and small tax-payer is compelled to pay on. There is no reason why Humboldt, Lyon, Churchill, Lander and Elko counties should not receive at six when Washoe will not take a cent less than at the rate of nine thousand per mile. Assessors, do your duty.

A semi-annual dividend of 5 per cent on the capital stock of the Anglo-Californian Bank. The Directors report from London that no losses were incurred by the Bank through the financial disturbances in San Francisco last Autumn, "while its current business has been largely and profitably increased."

The tide of emigration from south-eastern and central Nevada, via the Eureka and Palisade Railroad to Palisade, and thence eastward to the Black Hills, is steadily increasing, and has already assumed large proportions.

MINING NOTES.

The Consolidated Virginia shipments so far will average over $300,000 per day.

The California mill starts up on California ore on the first of the month, and the first dividend from that mine is looked for in May.

The new stock of the Chollar-Potosi, the Hale & Norcross and the Consolidated Imperial will not be ready for distribution for some ten days or two weeks yet.

It will be about six weeks before the Consolidated Imperial Mining Company will be fully organized and the new stock issued. The combination, to have been perfect, ought to have embraced the Alpha mine, into which the developments in Imperial are said to extend.

It is reported on what is deemed good authority that a rich strike has within a few days been made in the drift from the middle waste of the 1940-foot level of the Yellow Jacket. The drift is said to be twenty-seven feet in ore that will mill $200 per ton with no indications as yet of the bonanza giving out.

The fifty-second dividend of the Black Bear Quartz Mining Company was paid on the 23d. This mine is controlled by English capital, and is worked in the interest of stockholders rather than for the benefit of speculators. We wish that more of the mines on this coast were managed in the same way. There would probably be no increase in the quantity of bullion produced, but a higher standard of business morals would prevail.

An event of considerable importance in mining circles has just been consummated in the consolidation of the group of mines heretofore known as the Consolidated Imperial, with a capital stock of $50,000,000 and 500,000 shares. Following is a statement showing the number of feet in each mine, with the old and new shares and the ratio of increase.

Companies	Linear Feet.	Present Shares.	New Shares.	Ratio of Increase.
Imperial.....	183 1/2	100,000	267,735	2 2/3
Empire.....	75	50,000	98,977	1 98
Consolidated Imperial.....	34 1/2	20,000	22,009	1 1

Equal to the Hesperian.

A correspondent of the Memphis Appeal writes from Willsburg, Ark.: I give you an account of a shooting affair which happened ten miles from Willsburg, in Arkansas. I was sitting on my horse talking to a young man from Illinois, by the name of John C. Runge, when two men, well mounted, rode up, drew their pistols, and fired at young Runge, at the same time remarking that he had killed their two brothers some two or three months ago, but did not if he could kill them. Such rapid shooting, with as deadly effect, I never witnessed, although I served in the army four years. Both of the strangers were killed. Runge's horse went down at the first fire, when he placed himself behind the dead animal, and two shots from his pistol killed both his enemies. Runge then came to where I was and told me that he had had three different shooting scrapes with this same crew, and he was getting tired of the life he had to lead. He took one of the dead men's horses, gave one good look at his victims, handed me $20 to bury them and rode off. He has been pursued, but has not been heard from since. I have heard that the two men killed were named Williams from Tennessee.

THE COMING SPEECH OF SENATOR JONES.

The financial standpoint of Senator Jones is still a mystery. After all that has been surmised and said about Senator Jones' coming speech on the silver question, nothing has yet been clearly defined by the numerous persons who have tried to interview him, because the position is not yet fully taken. The Senator is still hard at work studying the work before him. The Washington correspondent of the Alta makes the following surmise as to its import:

In the main, however, the future speech will be a plea for debtors. He says that the finances of the world and political economy have always been discussed and taught from the creditors standpoint. He enunciates the pith of his argument as follows: The debtor represents the activity of the world; the creditor represents the inertia. The men who labor, and the men of brain, who project enterprises, are the debtors. He thinks that the problem of the world should be, how to prevent the dollars, which represent work that has already been done, from having too great advantage over the dollars which are paid for work done to-day. These propositions apply in considering the silver question, when it is objected to the double standard of gold and silver that those values can not be kept equal, and that debts will be paid in the cheaper of the two metals. This objection, Senator Jones claims, should not be made. He thinks debtors ought to have the choice of two standards.

Moreover, Senator Jones intends to review the entire history of money, and says he will show that the production of gold is rapidly diminishing, and is inadequate to supply the wants of trade. Therefore its value must necessarily advance and capitalists prefer long bonds, partly because at the maturity of the bonds gold dollars will be worth more, that is, will have greater purchasing power than at present.

Therefore he says, let us bring into use, as much as possible, silver to relieve the pressure of gold, and make it easier for debtors to pay their debts.

HOW SENATOR JONES PREPARES A SPEECH.

So much has been said about Senator Jones' manner of writing speeches, that your correspondent will take this opportunity to tell how it is done:

The Senator sits in his office generally alone—if he has no callers—at night. He reads and thinks in a reflective manner. If anyone calls he is sure to bring up the subject which is on his mind, and he makes conversation the grindstone for his wits. He is full of keen illustration and is fond of striking illustrations, comparisons and contrasts. When he is alone he jots down his various thoughts and preserves his favorite expressions. These he reads and re-reads and amplifies from time to time, so that any evening he is ready to regale a visitor, apparently impromptu, with the foreshadowing of a speech that will some day be made in the Senate Chamber. He has method also. This displays itself in his gradual arrangement of his work.

In this way he thinks out, masters and encompasses his subject from his standpoint of reflection. He has on hand a brain full of speeches of this kind. The tariff is a favorite subject. He is a free trader in principle.

It is apparent, however, that his tendency is more philosophical than political, and sometimes he may find himself theoretically correct with opportunity to become practical. As a conversationalist, he is very entertaining. He thinks as he talks, and consequently contradicts himself as often as his view of a subject changes its aspect. Yet, when it is required that he should decide without further debate, when the time for voting comes, his instincts are all on the side of conservatism and practical work.

When his speech on the double standard is ready, he will have prepared a work on the science of money which will attract much attention on account of its thoroughness of research, and will be studied as an eminently American production of thought and compilation.

The Eureka and Palisade Railroad under the able and efficient management of its General Superintendent, Mr. P. Everts, is doing a great deal for Palisade, having in construction their shops and necessary buildings. Also a fine passenger depot, which in beauty and design for its purpose equals any on the line of its larger contemporary, the Central Pacific.

TRAVEL eastward is on the increase and every passenger train carries some who are going for the purpose of attending the Centennial Exhibition. The number going overland from this Coast will not be very large when the opposition steamer gets to running, unless the railroad company reduces the rates of fare.

BEHIND TIME.—The west bound Central Pacific passenger train, due here Sunday night, did not arrive until 9:30 yesterday morning. Conductor Darrah informed us that the delay was owing to snow on the Union Pacific, and an accident to a freight train near Orono, on the C. P.

FOR THE BAY.—Tom Fitch, the political sphynx; Bob Morrow, the bold and shrewd California street operator; and the California Minstrel troupe, all took passage here yesterday on the delayed train for San Francisco.

We are in need of money and those owing us will confer a favor by settling up. We hope this hint will be sufficient.

The following item of local interest we find in the San Francisco Spirit of the Times of last Saturday: "As will be learned by a perusal of the advertising column, the Nevada State Association are out with their racing programme of stakes, and a very good one it is, and when the purses are added, a good week's racing must be the result. The 1 1/2 miles handicap will be sure to have a large field to contend, while in the two-year old race there is likely to be many of the youngsters engaged. The Chamberlain Plate will bring all the four-year olds out, as the inducement is sufficient to make them all take a hand. We will have more to say about these and other stakes in our next issue."

THE BRO SHOW.—Montgomery Queen, the Circus King, has sent us his "Advance Herald," in which he announces the speedy appearance of his mammoth caravan, embracing specimens of the zoological kingdom from every quarter of the globe. His equestrian and acrobatic troupes have also been largely augmented, and after a brief season at San Francisco, the grand combination will start on a tour of the State.

OUR SCHOOLS.—Trustees Duck and Jamison visited the schools yesterday and made such apportionment of scholars to each teacher as they thought best. Mr. Duck tells us it is the intention to grade the school July 1st, so when the next term commences every scholar will be in the class to which merit will entitle it. Our Trustees take great pride in our school and are doing all in their power to increase its efficiency.

IN TOWN.—State Treasurer Jerry Schooling was in town last evening. An honest man is that same Jerry, and an excellent State official. Len Harris, the Sacramento detective, was in town yesterday. Len's bump of secretiveness is very large and well defined—hence we don't know what kind of a lay he was on.

CHANGE.—Charlie Richardson has sold out to his partner, Drannan. The latter gentleman will still continue to run a first class saloon. The bar is well stocked with the best brands of wines and liquors and cigars. Give Drannan a call.

NATHAN, the one price clothier has a full stock of goods yet in store and will soon get up a Spring invoice of specials, to all of which he invites public attention, feeling fully able to do justice to all who may call.

MEMBERS OF Reno Lodge, No. 19, I. O. O. F. will please meet at their Hall on Wednesday evening, March 29th, at 7 o'clock sharp.

R. F. Hoy, N. G.
BEARS HIS LOSS WELL.—Dan Halaban, who lost a hand and part of his arm, arrived from the Eastern part of the State yesterday. His smile is as winsome as ever.

Did the Jacket sting you any? Never mind. Centennial curiosities are scarce. Look out for the next one.

Yellow Jacket strike.
 A dispatch from Virginia City of last Saturday says:

The all-absorbing talk here is the improvement in the Yellow Jacket mine. It has been reported for a week or two of a strike there, but as it has become so fashionable lately to out up the shares of a mine and then run it up and unload, the report was received with a great deal of suspicion. However, the report was confirmed so often that it began to attract attention, and a great many experts have examined the mine in the last few days. They first discovered the ore in a winze reached the 1940-foot level, near the Confidence line, but it did not amount to much. When the winze reached the 1940-foot level they started a drift south, and soon encountered the present ore. It gradually improved as they advanced, and to-day, at a distance of thirty feet from bottom of the winze, the drift is still in a fine body of solid quartz, which assays from $100 to $250. This strike can hardly be overrated, as it settles the question as to the depth ore bodies may be found on the Comstock. It has been freely argued by pretty good authority that nothing would be found so deep, and stockholders of those deep claims were beginning to get tired of paying assessments. The 1940-foot level in the Yellow Jacket is the deepest point reached on the lode. It is about 900 feet below the Consolidated Virginia ore body, and equal to about 2400 feet in the Sag. It matters very little as to the size of the ore body, as it is definitely settled that ore bodies exist at that depth, and that the ore is of the same quality as that found near the surface.

THE END OF THE WORLD.

Mr Jerrie Sayett Will Come this Year, and Baffle His Theory on Scripture.

[New York World]
 A meeting of Second Adventists was held on Sunday in Cooper Union to discuss the prophecy of a coming of Christ in 1876. About seventy-five persons, most of whom were gray haired and thoughtful looking men, gathered in a little room. Mr. Jerrie, who had written on a blackboard some figures to show that the end of the world, or "the time of the end," will come this year, spoke about the fulfillment of the prophecy in the twelfth chapter of Daniel. He illustrated his interpretation of the prophecy by historical references. "It says in that day the wicked shall do wickedly," he said. "Now did you ever see such a time of corruption and rottenness as this? I have never known, and I cannot find anyone who has ever known, such a time of corruption in Church and State and everywhere. Look at the Belknap case. But that is only one. Suppose you should go to Washington and unearth all the elements of corruption there, what would become of it?" He next argued that the prophecies foretold the end 1,330 years from a given time, that is, from "the time when the daily sacrifices shall be taken away and the abomination that maketh desolate be set up." This abomination, he said, was the Church of Rome, and its setting up occurred in 541, when the Emperor Justinian placed it on the pinnacle of its power and in order to do so overthrew the Goths. Then followed the period of 1,290 years spoken of in the prophecy bringing the time up to 1831, when the allied powers of Europe to prevent a continental war, took away from the Pope just as much power as Justinian had given him. To this 1,290 years the prophecy added a month and a half, meaning forty-five years, thus fixing the time at the end of 1876. In this view, Mr. Jerrie said, science and revelation agreed. He did not attempt to fix the day or the month of the end, which is to come "like a thief in the night." Two or three other persons spoke, and one old man criticised the churches for not preaching the coming of Christ.

What Does It Mean?
 [Silver City Reporter of Saturday]

There is indisputable evidence at hand that the Chinese inhabitants of this section of Nevada are now clandestinely organizing themselves into lodges or secret societies, but so far all attempts to ferret out the object sought to be gained by such banding together have been completely baffled. Already a lodge organization has been perfected by the Chinese of Virginia City and Gold Hill, and if appearances were not deceptive a lodge was sought to be established in Silver City last evening. Whether the plans were carried out in full we are unable to say. The movements of a party of Chinese who came into town from Virginia City at about 11 o'clock last night, on foot, were closely watched by several of our citizens who have had an inkling of the matter through one of the Chinese servants employed at the Bonanza Hotel, and who seems to have cut off his connection with the Mongolian element completely. As this fact is well known to his pagan countrymen, he is rightly excluded from their councils and therefore is as ignorant of the object as any of the whites. His idea is, however, that these secret societies aim at the introduction and protection of the Chinese as laborers in the mines. If such is the fact, the movement may safely be viewed as a farce with no harm in it, as an organization, however complete, would be likely to ever accomplish this end while both mine-owners and miners' unions are so unanimously opposed to its introduction. It is more than likely that these secret movements of "John" are of a different nature altogether, but whether offensive or defensive, it would do no harm for the authorities in each one of the places mentioned to keep an eye upon them.

TYPOGRAPHICAL ERRORS.—Some typographical errors are funny. In a New York paper recently appeared the words "This Port Said is," rendered, "This, Pat, said is," and "Put out the flag" appeared as "Pat, cut the hog." Horace Greeley wrote at the head of an editorial, "William H. Seward," and it came out "Richard the Third." A New Haven editor wrote "Is there unim in Gilead?" and was surprised at the table next morning to read, "Is there a barn in Guilford?" The sentence, "Americans are generous and forgiving," was recently transformed into "Americans are Germans and foreigners." A recent lecturer in Detroit wished to announce his subject as "The Friend of Society." It appeared in print as "The Friend of Society." It is customary to throw all the blame on the poor composers, but such blunders are often caused by the abominable manuscript of people who are too lazy to learn to write a plain, legible hand.

EDITOR.—A. Scrimgeour has become one of the editors of that spicy paper, the Silver City Reporter. He is a writer of more than ordinary force and ability, and will make the paper more sought after than ever.

Controller Knox has made a call on the California Gold Note Banks to show their condition as it existed on the 10th of March, and the statements are being prepared.
